

The Provost's Office and Faculty Senate are continuing to partner to support faculty in developing meaningful curricular and co-curricular student experiences at the Kennedy Mountain Campus (KMC). Many approaches and innovations are welcome, we have had 5 successful pilot experiences this past year. We've learned a few things: 1) these experiences must be integrated into classes, 2) The experience must be required for the students to attend, 3) 1 adult per every 15 students is required to meet university risk requirements, 4) KMC must provide activity options for faculty during their class weekend and in order to do this an activity fee must be assessed.

KMC availability for academic experiences is limited to designated weekends during each quarter. The scheduled transportation will depart the DU main campus on Friday afternoon for the weekend and return to Denver Sunday mid-day. Proposed academic weekend experiences should bridge in-class and out-of-class experiences to enhance students' learning. Some innovations will be place-based in "content" because they connect to the mountain setting in subject matter. Others will be place-based in terms of "cohort" because they build student community in ways that are especially supported by the mountain campus setting.
